MATRIMONIAL MIXUP.

Complicated Case Brings out Two Arrests in This City.

On a complaint made by the woman's husband, Marches Karaganas, 25, of Lowell and Mrs. Katherine Karaganas, 27, were arrested on Friday afternoon at 211 Vantage street by Police Officer Edmund Maloney and brought to the police station. Both furnished bail in $500 bonds later.

The case presents some peculiar features as the woman has taken out a license here under another name to marry Karaganas today (Saturday). The ceremony was to have been performed by the priest, but she believed her marriage to the complainant in the case had been annulled and that she was free to marry again. In taking out her license, it was stated that she said she was divorced, and that was the nearest way she knew how to explain it.

Late Friday night the man who entered the complaint called at the police headquarters and said he wanted to drop the case. When he got found that could not be done he got bonds to get the woman out for the night. Karaganas got his bonds earlier in the evening.

PARADE TO CELEBRATE ITALIAN DAY

Men, Women and Children of Italian Blood Celebrate Anniversary of Italy's Entrance Into War on Side of the Entente—Mass Meeting in Town Hall Follows Parade—Italian Women Collect $84.74 For Red Cross.

For the first time in the history of the United States the Italian flag has been flown from the flagpoles of the country since the days of Old Glory. This was on Friday in commemoration of Italy's entrance into the great world struggle on the side of the allies, the side of justice and righteousness.

In Norwich the day was fittingly observed by the Italian-speaking population, who displayed the flag and the colors of their native land. In the evening there was a street parade and a mass meeting at the town hall, where prominent American and Italian citizens addressed the large audience.

The parade, which, considering the short time which it was planned, was a decided success and a credit to the Italians of the city. The parade started from Shattuck street, led by the Italian band, followed by the Italian Fraternity society, bearing the Italian flag and the American. It might be appropriate to say at this point that there was a noticeable lack of reverence for the flag among the crowd that lined the streets, as hardly anyone uncovered when the flag passed in parade. Following the societies came the Italian children dressed to represent the various nations of the world. Following came the bicycle brigade, which was led by Frank Maierba, who rode a bicycle decorated to represent an airplane. On the airplane was the name Caproni, in honor of the wonderful Italian air machine which has been a factor on the Italian front. Following the bicycle brigade came the Italian Fraternity society, which was on the other way a tableau of the allied nations, Louis Bombino representing Uncle Sam and Mrs. Nancy Allegretti and Miss Mary Inezino as the other countries. The tableaux were decorated with the flag of the allied nations, Louis Bombino representing Uncle Sam and Mrs. Nancy Allegretti and Miss Mary Inezino as the other countries. The tableaux were decorated with the flag of the allied nations, Louis Bombino representing Uncle Sam and Mrs. Nancy Allegretti and Miss Mary Inezino as the other countries.

At the town hall, where several hundred people, including the greater part of the Italian population, had assembled, Mayor Abiel L. Brown presided over the meeting. Following the singing of America, Mayor Brown made the welcoming address, in which he said that it was a pleasure to see so many of the people of Italian descent in the city. He said that the Italian people were not only brave and patriotic, but that their patriotism was an inspiration to many who had been in this country a long time. We respect you as citizens of the United States and proud to celebrate with you the third anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war to crush the Kaiser.

Mayor Brown then introduced Judge John H. Barnes as the first speaker of the evening. Mr. Barnes in his genial way told of his visit to Italy, where he was especially impressed by the young women of the Land of Flowers. This remark from the judge brought out a storm of applause and continuing Mr. Barnes referred to Italy as the nation that led the world in sculpture and art, paying tribute to Michael Angelo. He praised the Italian nation for their readiness to enter the war and how their entry which released many French soldiers and guns from the Italian front had saved the battle of Marne. In closing he paid a high tribute to Garibaldi the hero and saviour of Italy.

Bruno Pedace was the next speaker and he addressed the audience in Italian saying that on the third anniversary of Italy's entry in the war he was proud to be able to stand and say that America, the land of his adoption, was fighting by the side of his native Italy. He paid tribute to the United States saying that it was a great country and that the Italian people would fight for it. In closing he made a strong appeal to the people for the Red Cross and as a result $84.74 was collected by the Red Cross representatives, Miss Frank Pedace, assisted by Mrs. Anna Bellocchi, Miss Mary D'Airi and Mrs. Eugene Bonanno.

After the playing of the Star Spangled Banner, Arthur F. Libby, chairman of the Town War Bureau, made a short address in which he thanked the Italian band on behalf of the bureau and the citizens of Norwich for their hearty co-operation in all the patriotic undertakings of the city. He paid tribute to Italy saying that with her help the power of Prussianism would be overthrown and that the allies would attain a glorious victory.

Frank Saldarelli was the next speaker and spoke to the people in Italian, outlining Italy's part in the war, and urging the people of Italy in this country to do all in their power to further the cause of democracy for which the allied nations were fighting.

All the speakers of the evening were heartily applauded and at the end three cheers for the Italian band were given. The committee in charge of the parade and mass meeting.

Eleven saloonkeepers of the city paid full bills of costs, amounting in each case to $22.02, in the city court on Friday morning when the cases were settled. They were all accused of violation of the liquor law in having side or back rooms at their saloons. ST. MARY'S SODALITY

GIVES ANNUAL PLAY

Auditorium Was Filled to Standing Room—Programme Ably Rendered.

Standing room only was at a premium in the Auditorium theatre, Friday evening when the Young Ladies Sodality of St. Mary's parish drew out a thousand people to witness their annual play, A Night at the "Peek In." The play turned out to be a minstrel show, the cast appearing in evening dress, while the ends used their burnt cork disguises.

The scene revealed a pretty Garden Party scene with Edward T. Connelly, the host, as Dandelion, and the leading figure and doing his work well. He had sole charge of the waiters or ends, and their work showed his training. All the soloists did their parts well and were heartily cheered, while the chorus numbers showed the high standing of the organization with the talent at its disposal. The furniture used in the stage was loaned through the courtesy of Schwartz Brothers, and B. Burke, while the cast were served ice cream during the progress of the first part through the thoughtfulness of the pastor, Rev. John H. Fitzmaurice.

At the finale, John Bellert, John Kepyon and George Thomas of the Riverside Dramatic club, in soldier costume, brought in Old Glory and the audience rose and cheered most heartily.

During the intermission, Rev. William H. Kennedy, one of the four minute speakers, made a ringing appeal in behalf of the Red Cross and his efforts drew forth a large contribution from the audience as the collectors passed through the theatre. The collectors were the Misses Anna Walsh, Lucy Woods, Sarah Kelly, Margaret Condon, Kathleen Murphy, Alice Daly, Hannah O'Donnell and Julia Malone. Part second revealed a dance of the leaves and fairies and was well taken as was Mr. Connelly in his monologue, "A Night Out with Casey."

The closing number was given by the Riverside Dramatic club of the Norwich State Hospital, entitled "Zynareness," a patriotic spectacle. John C. Dargett taking the speaking part. The members appeared on the stage carrying shields which represented letters which spelled Preparedness and reversed United States. Interspersed with this was a solo by Prentice W. Chase and then came the symbolic figures, the audience again rising as the Star Spangled Banner was rendered. The minstrel proved most pleasing to all and showed the marked ability of Mrs. Thomas J. Healy, the organist of the church, who had sole charge of the affair, ably assisted by Miss Margaret L. Daley.
